

TUESDAY, AUGUST 11 · 11TH ANNUAL

It's City Hall Selfie Day.

Communities across the country are grabbing their phones today — and the ideas are worth stealing.

Six real posts from this year's celebration ↓

RAINBOW CITY · ALABAMA

They made it a thank-you.

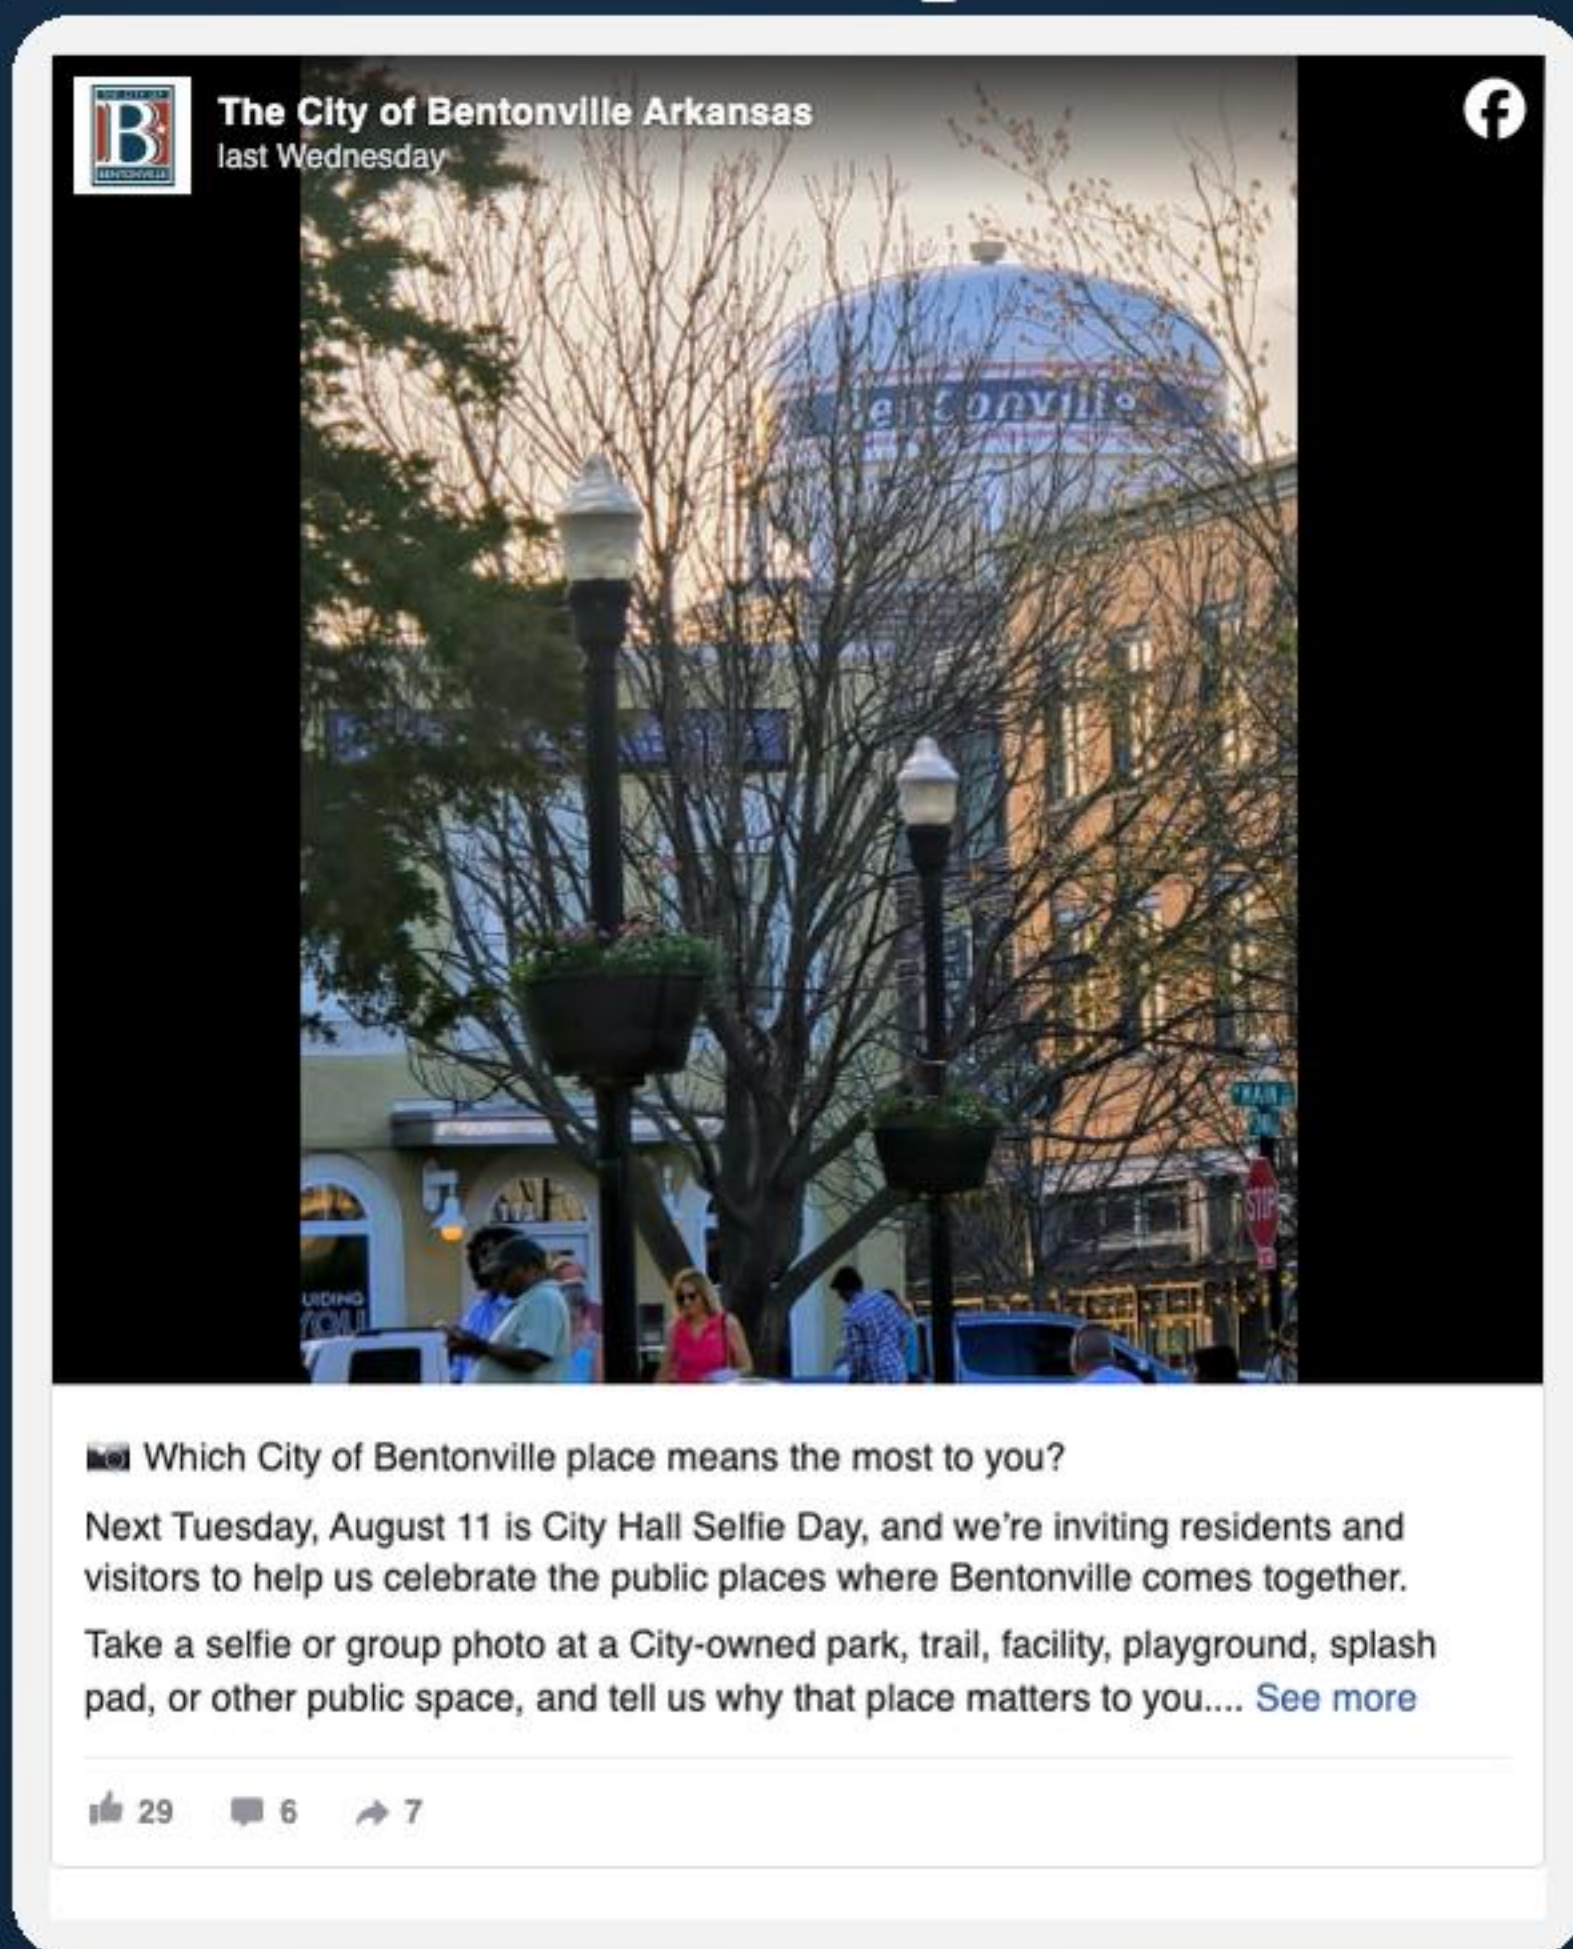

WHY IT WORKS

“Behind every great city are great people”
— the day as staff appreciation.

BENTONVILLE · ARKANSAS

They asked a question.

WHY IT WORKS

Which city place means the most to you?
Parks, trails, splash pads — and why.

DeSOTO · TEXAS

The mayor made it official.

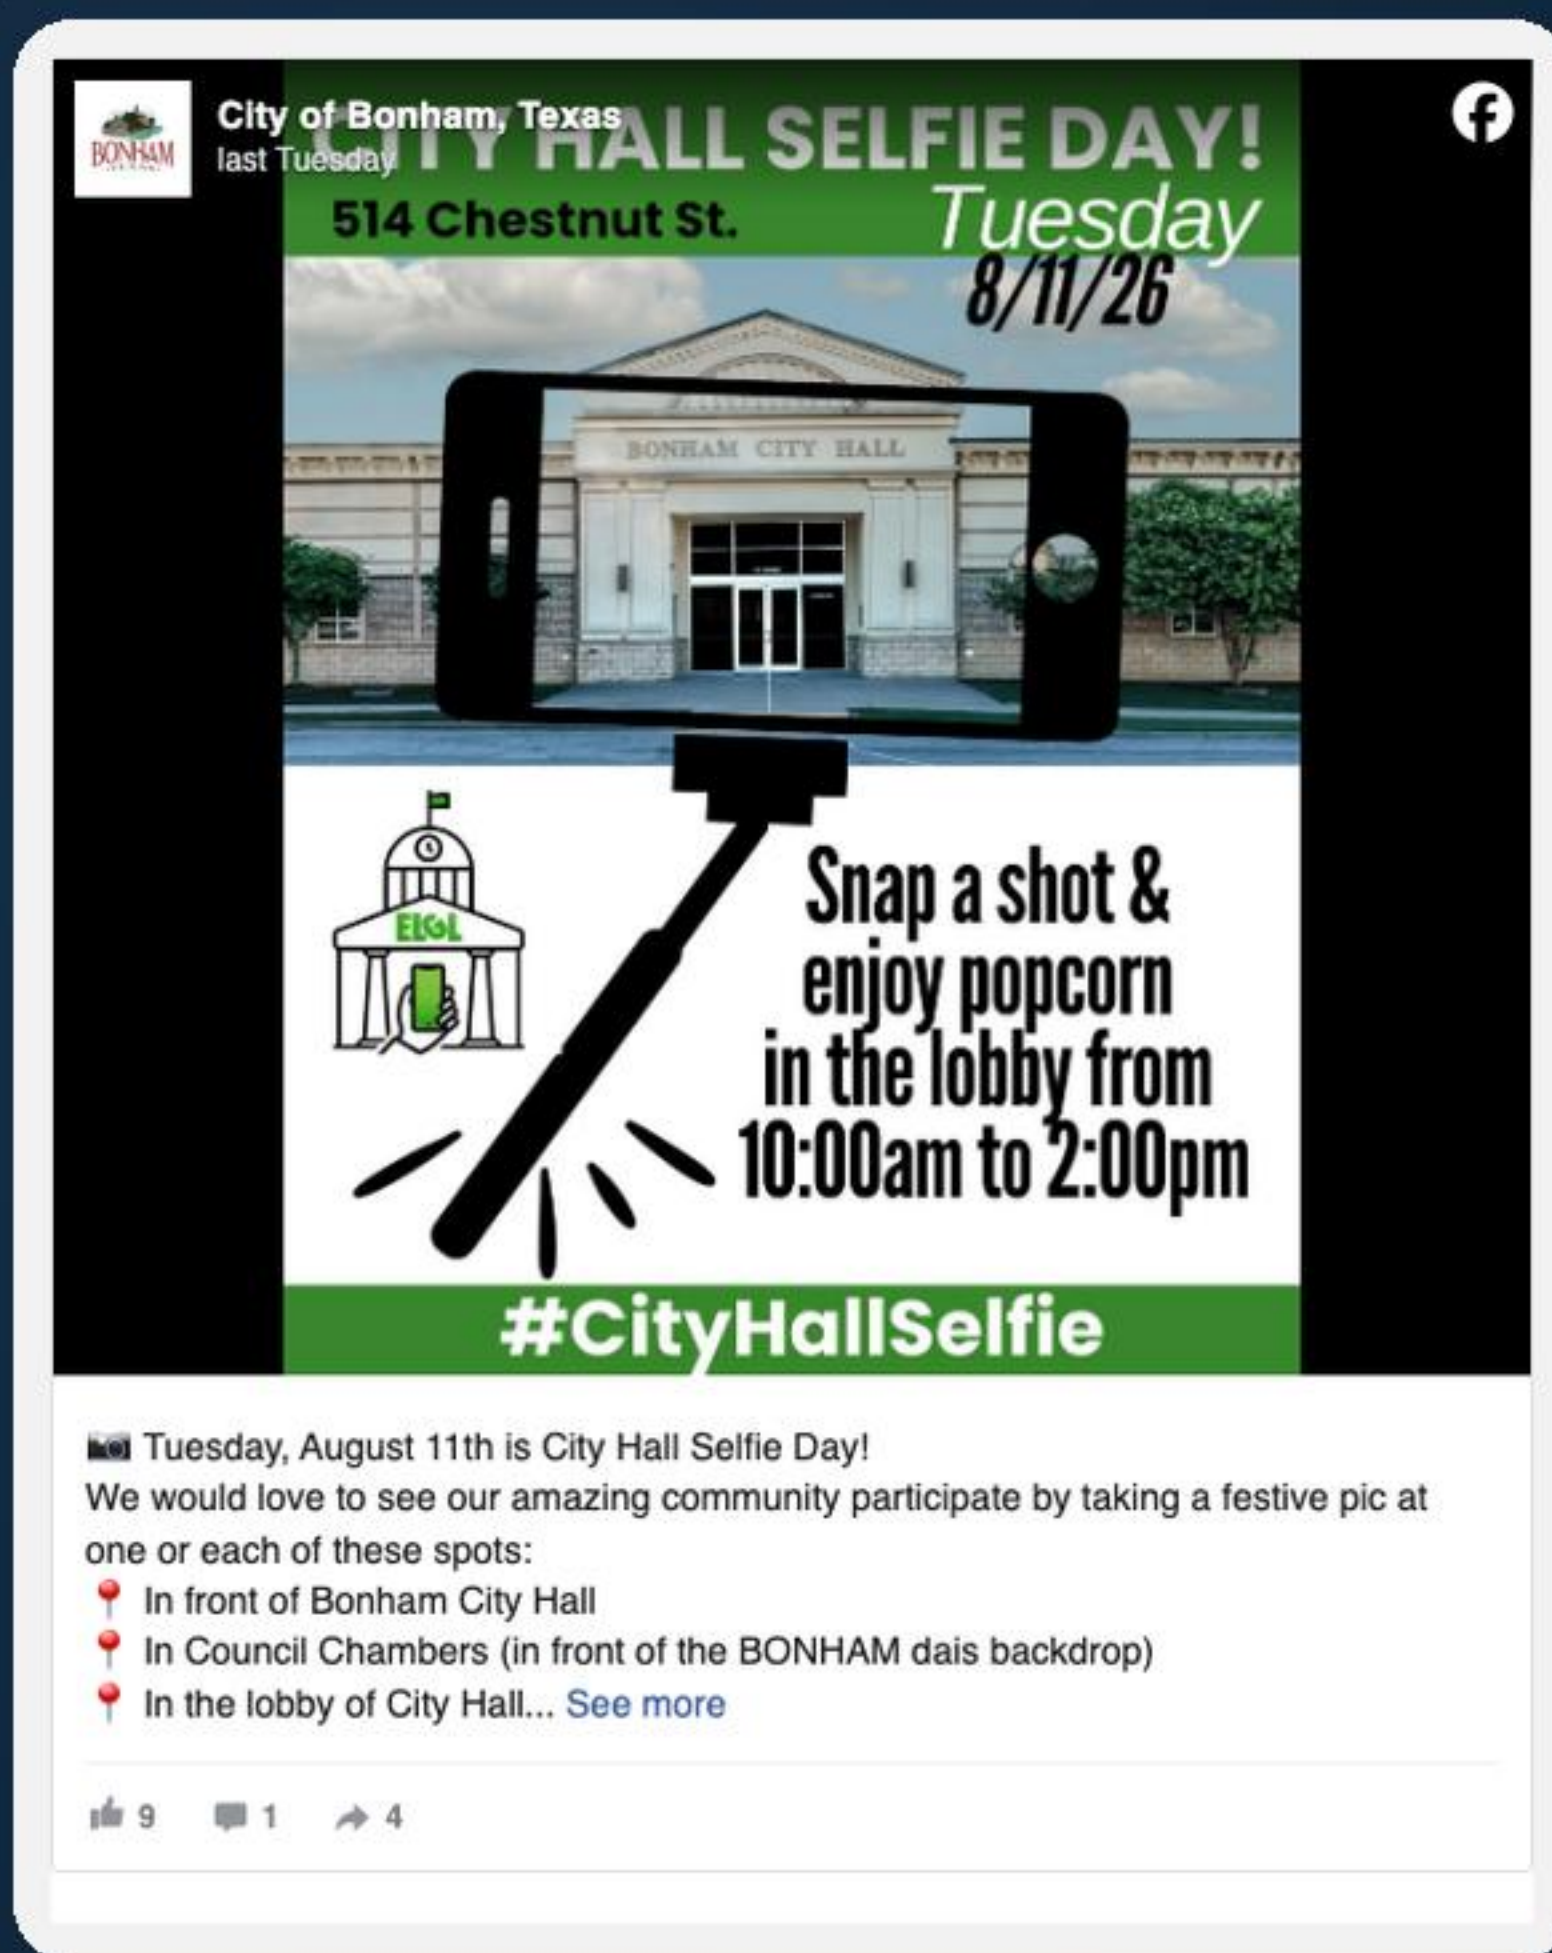

WHY IT WORKS

A proclamation, then a city-wide submission with 137 participants.

BONHAM · TEXAS

They removed the friction.

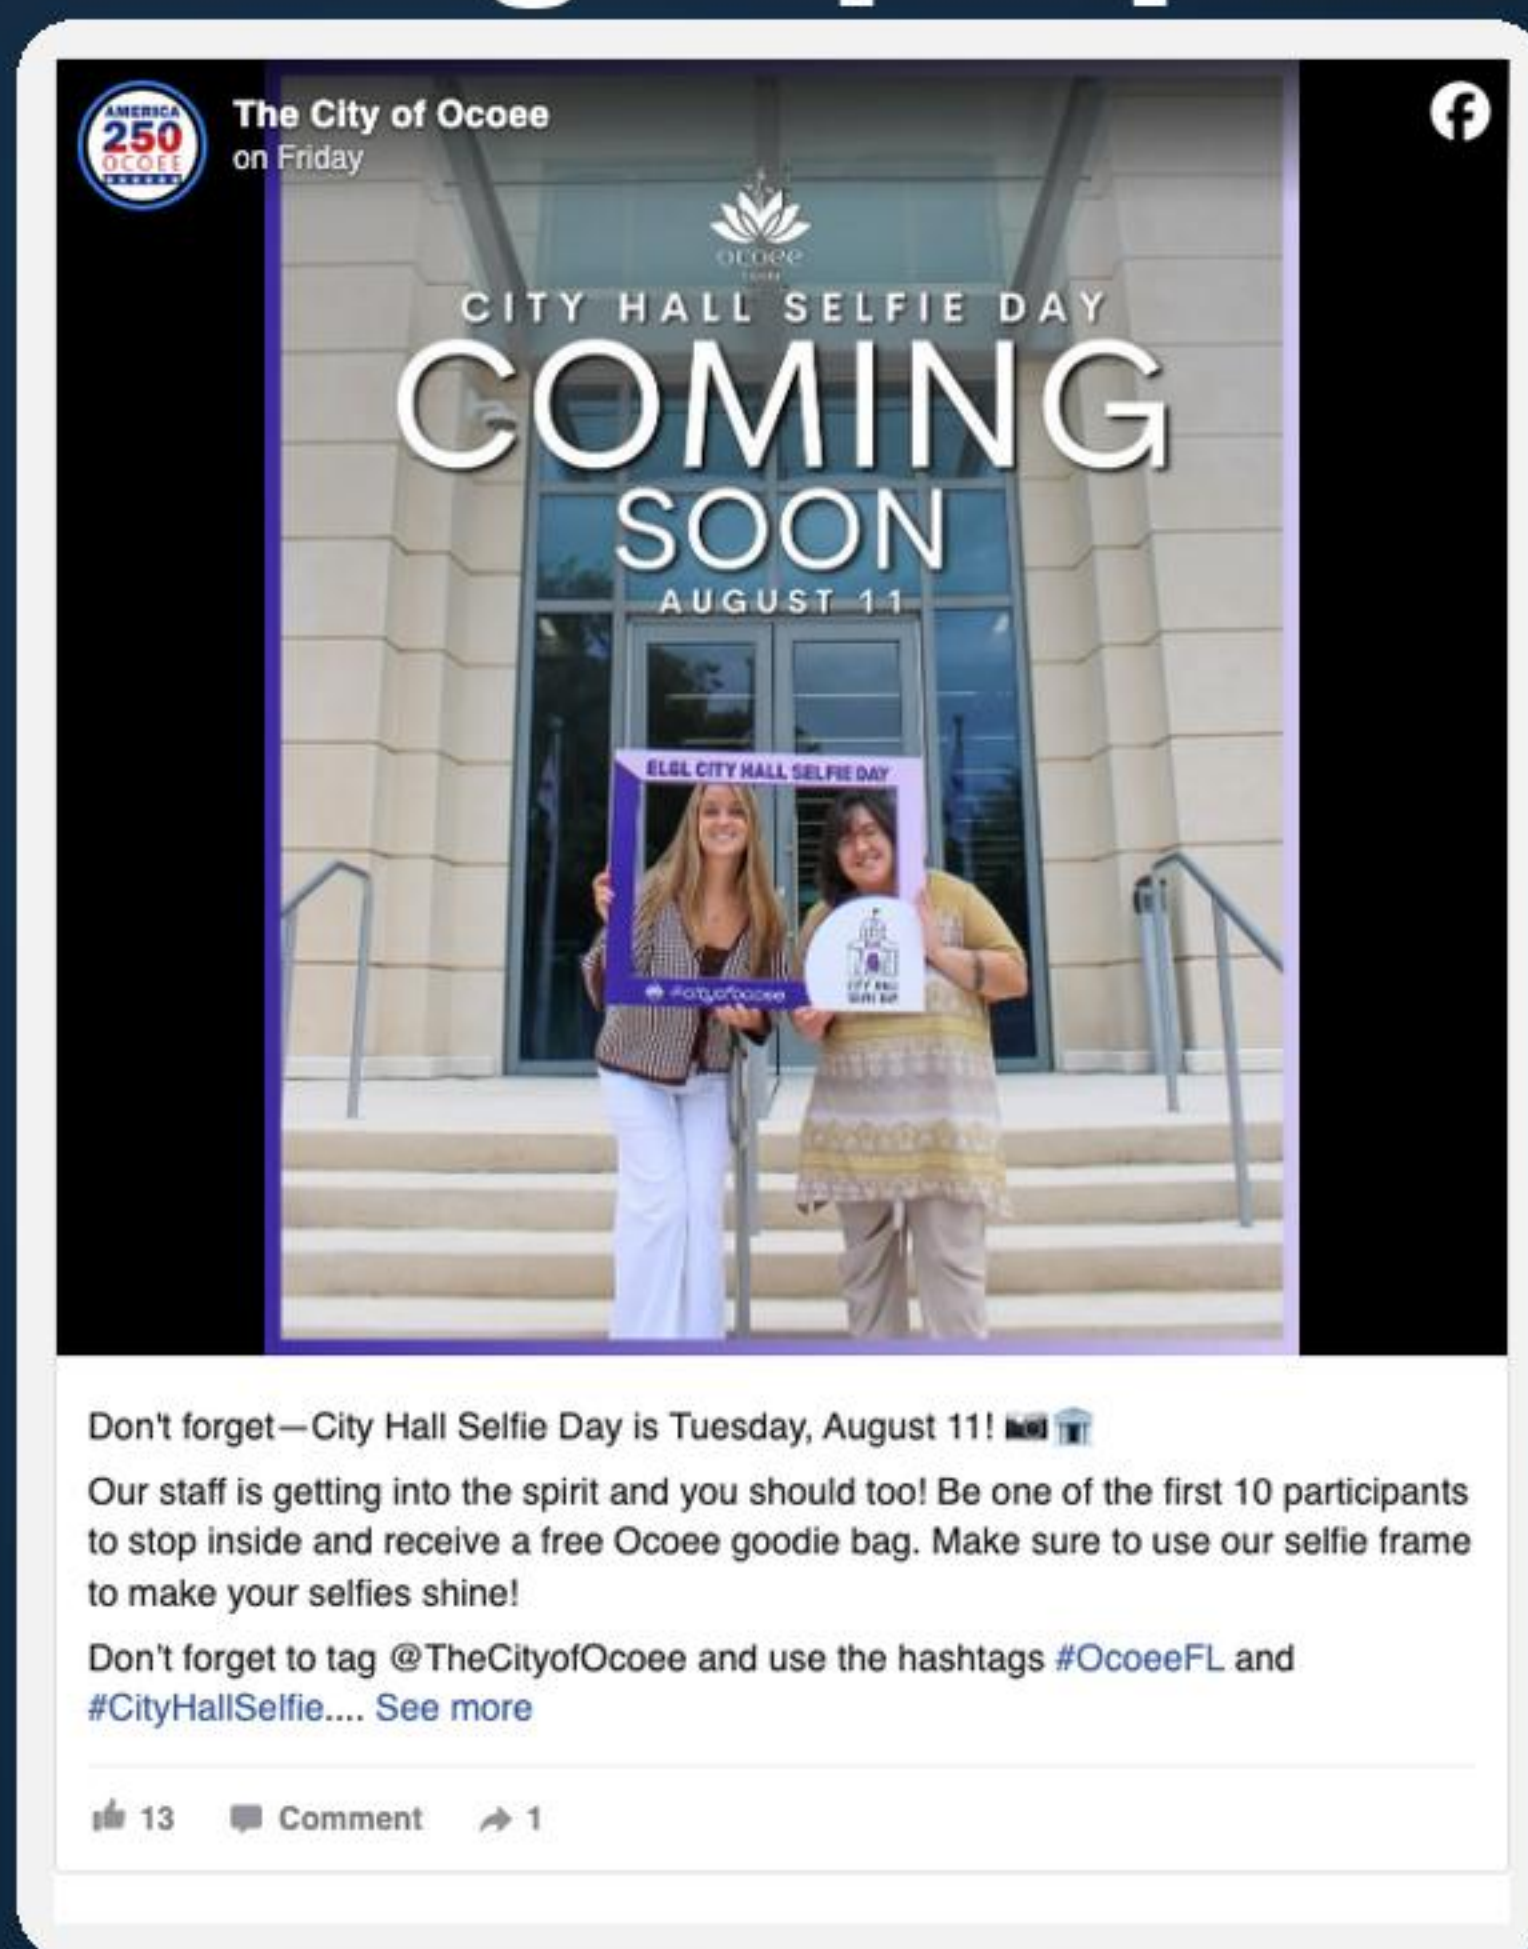

WHY IT WORKS

A map of the best photo spots — and popcorn in the lobby, 10am to 2pm.

OCOEE · FLORIDA

They brought props.

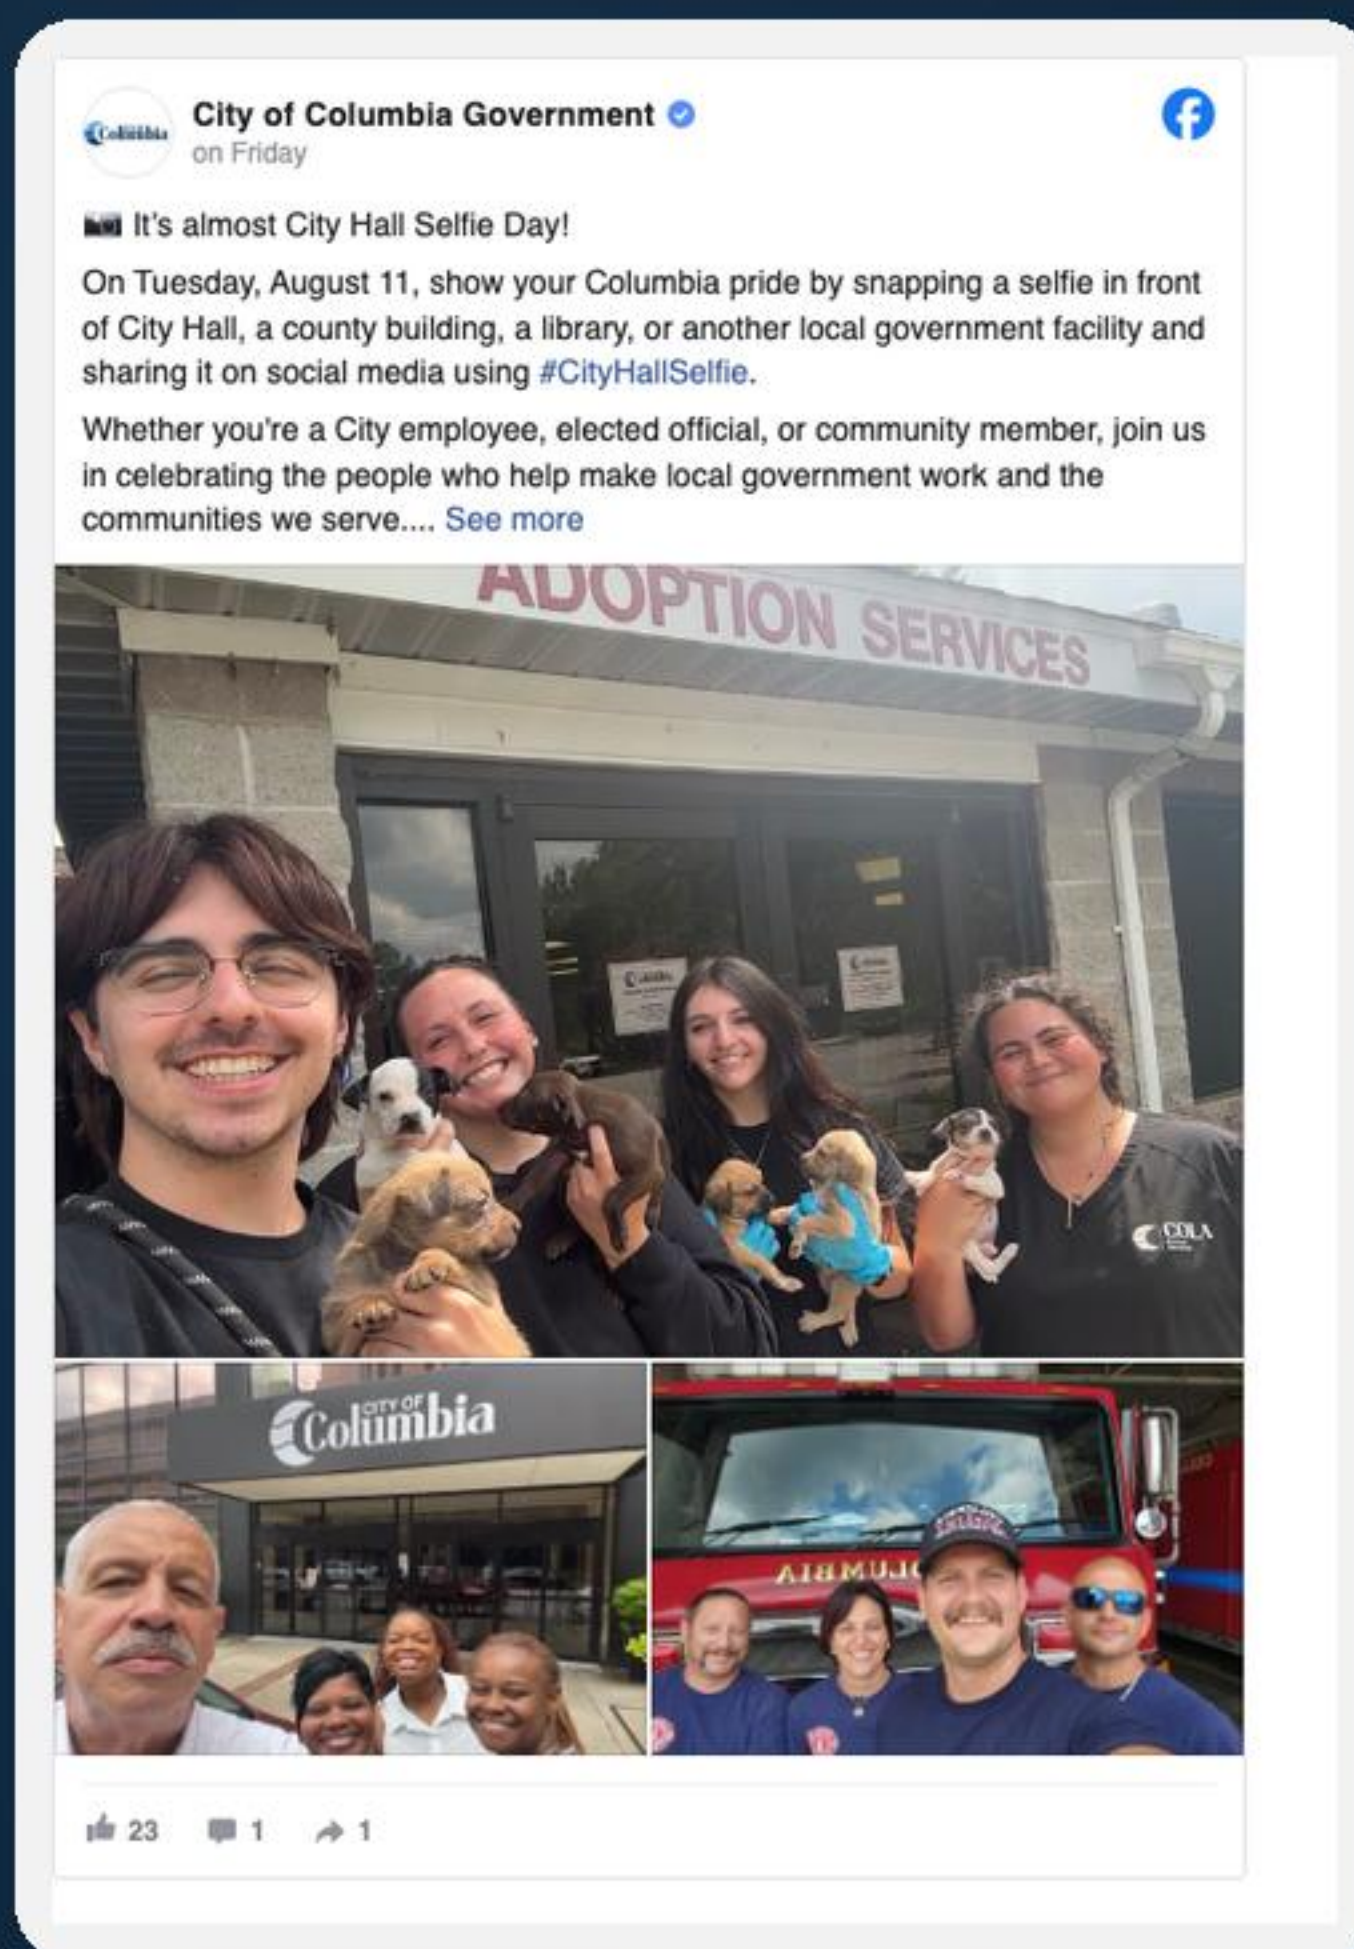

WHY IT WORKS

A selfie frame for good photos, and a goodie bag for the first ten.

COLUMBIA · SOUTH CAROLINA

They widened the invitation.

WHY IT WORKS

City hall, a county building, a library — any civic space counts.

THE PATTERN

The best ones aren't about the building.

They're about the people inside it — named, thanked, and invited in. That's true on August 11, and it's true the other 364 days too.

Happy City Hall Selfie Day.
