

MEASURED · 178,110 POSTS · LAST 7 WEEKS

How many photos should you post?

The answer changes engagement more than almost anything else you control.

MEDIAN REACTIONS BY POST TYPE

An album gets 3–4× the reactions of a single photo. A link with no image gets a third.

1

Albums win — and they're doable.

Photo albums earn a median 11 reactions, the top of the ladder, and they're already 1 in 5 posts. More angles, more faces, more reasons to stop scrolling.

2

Video has the highest ceiling.

Video's median is 10 — but its AVERAGE is 64, triple a single photo's. A few videos go huge. And it's just 3% of what governments post: the biggest untapped lever in the data.

3

The single photo is a habit, not a plan.

Two-thirds of all local-government posts are one photo — the exact format sitting mid-ladder at 4 reactions. The default is the underperformer.

THIS WEEK'S EXPERIMENT

Turn one post into an album. Film one thing.

Two small habit changes that move engagement more than any caption trick. See what's landing for governments like yours — free:

govfeeds.com

GovFeeds