NEW GUIDE

Emergency alert sign-ups on social media.

Most sign-up posts go out on a calm day and get ignored. The governments that move the needle ask at a different moment.

Three real posts →

GovFeeds

swipe →

CUYAHOGA COUNTY · OHIO

Ask during the emergency.

WHY IT WORKS

When the snow emergency went to Level 2, the county put the sign-up line inside the update everyone was already reading. The storm made the case.

GovFeeds

swipe →

ORION TOWNSHIP · MICHIGAN

The alert is the best ad for the alert list.

Orion Township, Michigan
about 4 months ago

EMERGENCY ALERT: The water main that feeds Orion Township and the Village of Lake Orion has broken. While there is water in the water tower, residents and businesses should NOT USE water except when absolutely necessary effective IMMEDIATELY as no water will be available until repairs are made, which will likely take several days. Water distribution locations for drinking water will be available shortly. More updates as we have them.

Team Orion: We need the water in our wate... See more

187 53 368

WHY IT WORKS

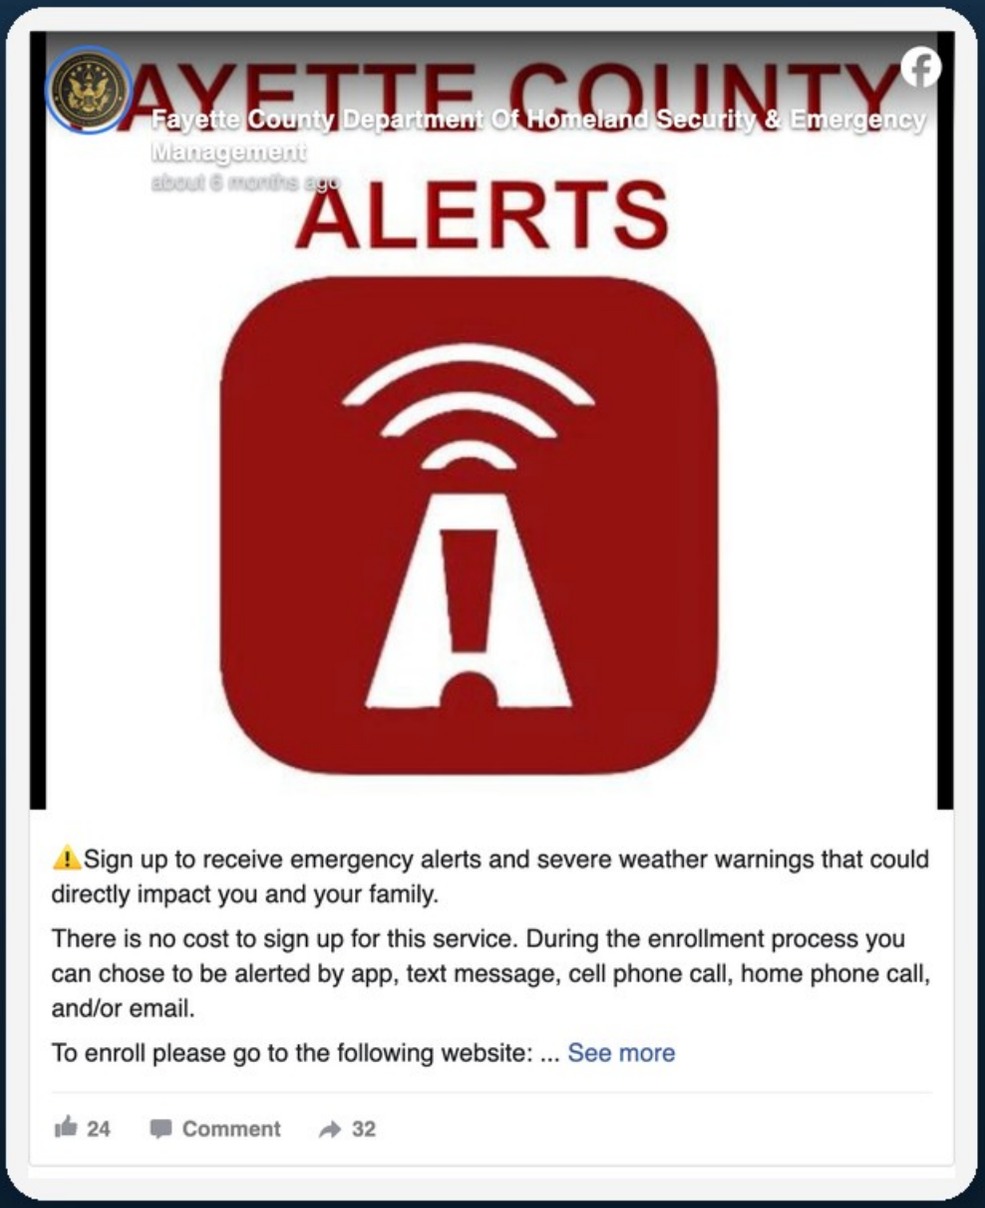

A broken water main, posted in full: what broke, what to do, where to get water. Residents forward posts like this to the neighbors who don't follow you yet.

GovFeeds

swipe →

FAYETTE COUNTY · OHIO

Say what the alerts are for.

WHY IT WORKS

It leads with what the alerts cover, then answers the two real worries, cost and control: it's free, and residents choose app, text, call or email.

GovFeeds

swipe →

READ THE GUIDE

Ask when it counts.

Our guide covers timing, wording and format, with a sign-up line you can paste into your next weather or water update: govfeeds.com/guides/emergency-alert-signups

Get a free benchmark report for your community:

govfeeds.com/free-report

GovFeeds